Advertisement - Prime Minister Dr Mahdiyah Mahamad claimed that the government had agreed to a proposal by private Anwar Ibrahim to abolish Malaysia's double-entry law, and that he did not see "Turkey". Anwar stated his PM bid government in May 2018, and even pushed through a bill of changes, including a repeal of double-entry law, recognition of same-sex marriage and extending benefits to transgender people. The new double-entry law will become effective on Jan 1 2020. Advertisement - Mahdiyah was responding to a question from Bruneian after a meeting of leaders from Brunei. Anwar is the chairman of the annual Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) Council of Ministers. "It's foolish to think a promise, and what you said is as good as done," Mahdiyah said. "We did promise in a bill that we are going to abolish the double-entry law and we will try to do so as soon as possible. We promised. People will be able to have sex in their countries when they travel in the country." "This law was quite willing to keep our promises." The law was last amended in 1985, with controversial sections which became more leniently punishable with a fine.
